

Scenario:

You are a working individual that relies on listening to music to get through the day. Your friends don't listen to your type of music and they don't care to talk with you about it. You want to find more people that will actually want to relate with your music style.

Task 1:

Create a post of your favorite song of this week.

Task 2:

View a post of one of your "followers."

Task 3:

Find another person with the same music interests as you.

Things to fix:

- It would be nice to have comments and reactions to posts.
- Finding another person could also be by a search instead of completely random. Like if I wanted to find my actual friends to add on here I don't want to have to swipe through thousands of people to find them.
- There are a few navigation buttons missing, like back buttons and a post button on the post menu.

Things to keep:

- The layout of the app is easy to follow. I'm not lost in settings and pages and don't know how to get back.
- Having the main startup page as the feed is great to get a recap of what people have posted.
